

Barry Dwyer's Home Page

I used to teach Computer Science at the University of Adelaide.

Activities

- Sharing techie stuff at the Adelaide Linux Supporters Group,
- airing my knowledge at Rostrum Club No. 3,
- and singing in the Adelaide Harmony Choir.
- From time to time I write dreadful poems like this.

phone: +61 8 1234 5678
mobile: +61 456 789 012

email: Secret

I wouldn't recommend setting up an `` link. Although it doesn't show, my email address is present in the HTML code, and could easily be picked up by a spambot. In fact, when I made that mistake at uni, spam eventually outweighed genuine mail ten to one. I would recommend something like,

"My email address has the form first.last@me.com.
Chew on that, Spambot!"